Major Sylvester Says Boys Should Not Run the Streets.

tion to the Problem of How to Pre vent Youths From Assembling in Alleys and Highways-An Appeal to Parents to Exercise Authority

The recent conflict between two crowds of boys, which resulted fatally, has caused the police authorities to think deeply or the problem of how to prevent boys from congregating in the streets and alleys Major Sylvester has spent much time in trying to solve this problem, and in this connection he gave out the following in-

"No one but the officer who must contend with the small boy and the youth of today appreciates the difficulties attending their regulating. My sympathies are largely with the boy, whose shortcomings, if in idence, are largely the result of parential indifference. If the lad is permitted to "go as you please," what must the harvest be? The indifference to which I refer, on the part of parents, amounts to acquiescence of any course they may pursue. If so, and an officer interferes, boy or youth at once assumes the defen-sive, and the farther and mother, whose sons in their sight are always "good boys," come in conflict with the authorities, and the member of the force is charged with barshness and threatened with dismissal.

"My instructions have invariably been for the police to warn boys and youths who congregate on corners, who make localities disagreeable by their actions, not to do so; if they persist in such conduct to report them to parents, and finally, if the end sought is not accomplished, to make arrests. I know officers endeavor to do this, but their efforts are attended with do this, but their efforts are attended with scorn and insult in many instances, and it must be a kind-hearted, level-headed character who will face such music with-out making arrests at once. There is a law against assemblages on the corners and elsewhere, which I believe one of the judges of the Police Court was instrumen-tal in securing, but it is poor consolation and discouraging to police officers who make arrests and generally in response to make arrests, and generally in response to complaints, to appear in court and have their efforts go for naught, through the dismissal of cases.

"The parent has a duty to perform in the premises, the judge is charged to assist as well as the officer. The latter is not officiating as such for his health, nor is it a pleasure for him to take persons to court, but he does it in response to the public demand for good order as made by invoking the law. The young unrestrict-ed rowdies who have hostile contentions do not come out from cover to quarrel, but they scamper from square to square. ambush to alley, and alley to ambush, un-der cover of the night, and it would re-quire a regiment of police to cover them. "It is unfortunate that boys are deprived of the streets and lots for ball playing and other outside amusements. All of them will not go a fishing, hence poolrooms and secluded indoor places, become their rendezvous, and cards and drink a pastime. If a public playground existed in the Northwest, Southwest, Northeast, and Southeast, with guards to preserve order, where ladders, bowling alleys, bars, trapeze, bicycle path, and ball ground could be had, the streets, alleys, and lots would be vacated, as well as the stable lofts, and an improved condion would follow.

"Boys should not be left to the police to run, to frighten and arrest, but should be so provided for that life would be worth ving, that their moral and physical health ould be protected, and improved, and nor selected and impaired. "I receive many complaints against the little fellows and young men, the latter being charged with smiling at and annoy-ing ladies.

"The law does not allow such, and it

The law does not show such, and it will be enforced on my part, if possible. I have directed against it, and if the warning in due time does not have its effect, more severe measures must follow.

"Other agencies than police should improve the conditions, and I look for them to do the part which belongs to them."

FUNERAL OF MISS MACNICHOL. Simple Services at the Residence of Her Parents.

The funeral of Miss Lizzie Macnichol. the talented Washington singer, who died The score at Chocerua, N. H., on Saturday, took place from the home of her parents, 105 C Street southwest, yesterday afternoon. The services were private and were conducted by the Rev. Charles T. Weed, of Baltimore, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Huntley, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, of this city. Only the immediate family and friends of the deceased were present. Simplicity marked the services through out. After the regular prayer service both of the clergymen spoke feelingly of the high Christian character of the deceased,

The burial service, concluding with the Lord's Prayer, was read. The pallbearers were William G. Stew-art, George A. Kingsbury, and Henry W.

Savage, of the Castle Square Opera Com-pany; Edward Marlow, Thomas Dove, Charles Pierson, and Thomas G. Crom-well, of this city. The casket was placed in a receiving vault at the Congressional Cemetery. ANSWER OF THE HUSBAND.

The Respondent in a Divorce Case Makes Countercharges.

The answer in the McDonough divorce proceedings, in which the wife, Arvilla Mc. Donough is the petitioner, was filed today. In her petition for divorce Mrs. McDon ough declared that her husband willfulls deserted her, but this is denied by him His duties as an attache of the United States consulate at Barbados, West Indies, he states, necessitated his absence but he avers that for more than eighteen months after he went away he sent his wife $22 each month, until he learned of what he terms her very flagrant disregard of her ne terms her very inagrant usregard of her duties as a wife. He also charges that as long ago as 1894 her conduct towards one, James Murray Arrowsmith, a second lieu-tenant in the United States infantry, was such as could not be explained, and when he called upon his wife to account for her con-duct she left him. Afterward, on September 24, 1898, Mc-Donough says his wife wrote him that she thought of applying for a separation and that they had long been millistones around each other's necks. In the answer it is also alleged that Mrs. McDonough inform-ed the respondent that she had secured a ition and was able to support herself.

Philadelphia, 2; Chicago, 1. Brooklyn, 6: Cleveland, 2. GAMES TODAY.

Pittsburg at Washington

Cleveland at Brooklyn. Cincinnati at New York. St. Louis at Philadelphia. Chicago at Baltimore.

Park yesterday between Washington and St. Louis, a steady downpour of rain setting in just before the second contest was about to be started. Bunting was the order of the day, Bunting was the order of the day, as the grounds were very slippery, and it was a bunt that lost the game for the Senators. Dinneen fielded a ball that was dumped in front of the plate and in his hurry he threw the sphere over McGann's head, allowing three men to score. The Indians tallied again before they were retired, and if they had not scored again they would have won, as the best Washington could do was to garner a trio of tallies.

Washington and Pittsburg begin a series this afternoon at National Park, The score:

Both McJames and Knepper pitched good ball at Brooklyn yesterday, but the Hanlonites managed to score often enough to win from the Exiles, with something to spare,
